

Overview

The Annapurna region, Manang, and the old Tibetan Gurung villages offer breathtaking natural beauty and a rich cultural experience. The trek takes you through diverse landscapes, including lush forests, terraced fields, alpine meadows, and picturesque villages. The region is renowned for its majestic mountain views, with Annapurna I, II, III, IV, Gangapurna, and Tilicho Peak dominating the skyline.

The trek to Manang typically starts from the town of Besisahar and follows the Annapurna Circuit route. Along the way, you'll pass through charming Gurung and Tibetan villages like Pisang, Ngawal, and Braga. These villages are known for their distinct architecture, traditional lifestyle, and warm hospitality. You can immerse yourself in the local culture, visit monasteries, and witness age-old traditions and rituals.

Bhujung and Ghale Gaun are traditional Gurung villages located in the Lamjung district. These villages offer a unique glimpse into the Gurung culture, with their traditional houses, terraced fields, and friendly locals. The villages are situated at higher altitudes, providing stunning views of the surrounding mountains and valleys. You can explore the village trails, interact with the locals, and learn about their customs, festivals, and handicrafts.

After exploring the mountainous regions, a visit to the Royal Chitwan National Park offers a contrasting experience. Located in the lowlands of Nepal, Chitwan is a renowned national park and a UNESCO World Heritage site. The park is home to diverse wildlife, including the endangered one-horned rhinoceros, Bengal tigers, elephants, deer, and various bird species.

During the jungle safari in Chitwan, you can go on exciting wildlife excursions, such as jeep safaris, elephant rides, and canoe rides along the Rapti River. You'll have the opportunity to spot wildlife up close, observe their natural habitats, and learn about conservation efforts. Additionally, cultural programs featuring traditional Tharu dances and music are often organized for visitors.

Overall, the combination of the Annapurna region trek, the exploration of Manang's ancient Gurung villages, the homestays in Ghale Gaun and Bhujung, and the wildlife encounters in Chitwan National Park creates a well-rounded trip that offers both natural beauty and cultural immersion in Nepal.
